The anchor, Harshit Garg started his speech with a gracious welcome to the speaker, participants, and, everyone present there. After the warm welcome anchor invited the speaker Manav Mangukiya on the stage. The speaker commenced with a way to get everyone's attention by asking questions. He got onto the path by the topic "How to write a Research Paper?". He explained the difference between a Research Paper and a Review Paper, and the benefits of a Research paper that may improve one's writing and researching skills. This was followed by explaining the Types of data required for the research paper. From his working experience, he highlighted the most time-consuming part of Research Paper writing and the importance of background reading. He showed his piece Research Paper which was published recently, as an example and delineated the Format of Research Paper Writing. He illustrated the importance of the 'Title' in the Research Paper and unriddled the Methodology and Algorithm. He also expressed his Achievements in the Research Paper he published. He highlighted the eligibility criteria for publishing a Paper, and to get one's paper pass through a conference. He guided the audience to get help from published Research Paper. Later came the Q/A round where the participants asked a few questions to receive satisfactory answers. He gracefully thanked everyone for listening to him willingly. The anchor appreciated the speaker for his valuable and impactful speech and extended thanks to the participants for their precious time.
