IEEE AP-S/MTT-S/EMC-S Hyderabad Chapter

Report

The joint chapter of AP, MTT and EMC (JCAME) and IEEE AP-S/MTT-S/EMC-S Hyderabad Chapter organized a National-level Symposium for Research Scholars (SYRES – 2023) working in the areas related to Communications.

The objective of the SYRES – 2023 was to provide a platform for PG and PhD scholars to share, learn and exchange experiences, ideas, and innovations in the discipline of Antenna, Microwave, EMI/EMC, and allied fields. Also, explore for possible collaborations and interact with peers working in similar fields.

The abstracts from the PG and PhD scholars were invited to submit their abstracts in prescribed format and register for participation in symposium. It was proposed to distribute award total prizes of worth Rs 25000/- and travel grant up to Rs 2500/- each to outstation IEEE member participants.

We received registrations from 10 PG scholars and 15 PhD scholars from various institutes from Hyderabad, Bengalure, Pune, Warangal etc. Preliminary screening was carried out and all the scholars were invited for the presentation on 28th October 2023 in physical mode conducted at Matrusri Engineering College, Hyderabad. Eleven PhD scholars and ten PG scholars reported to the symposium and presented their work in separate parallel sessions for PG and PhD scholars. Three judges for each category(PG & PhD) were invited to evaluate their work. Most of the judges invited were from DLRL/DRDO Hyderabad who have expertise and have been working in the field for a long time. The symposium was inaugurated by Dr Jahagirdar, outstanding scientist, DRDO, Hyderabad. He delivered a keynote speech on antenna applications for defense and space. Prof K P Ray delivered a keynote speech on Wireless Communications 5G, UWB and beyond as part of the valedictory session.
